—Cornelis Hollander

With the multitude of options you have when looking for a place to purchase jewelry, jewelers need to be in the business of setting themselves apart. Offering a fresh alternative to the competition is the name of the game. And that's precisely what Cornelis Hollander has accomplished. Cornelis Hollander jewelry is different in a way that will greatly help you.

Cornelis is widely recognized as an innovator in the area of jewelry design, with his natural eye for gemstones and inherent feel for the finished product. These skills were honed during his time spent working in South Africa, the diamond capital of the world. And when you visit his store in Old Town Scottsdale, well, let's just say you're in for a treat.

The custom designs alone offered at Cornelis Hollander are enough to set the business apart, which is no doubt the main reason Cornelis has won more awards than we can name, including the coveted Best Artistic Jewelry Pieces. Check it all out at www.cornelishollander.com or head into the aforementioned shop and feast your star-gazed eyes on pieces of jewelry presented in ways you've likely never seen. Rings, necklaces, pendants, colored stones and, of course, diamonds. It's all of the utmost quality, and worth every minute you spend perusing the one-of-a-kind inventory.

But when you tap into the personal touch aspect of the business, that's when Cornelis Hollander really moves into its own league. Perfectly suited for even the pickiest of people, Cornelis and his highly-skilled craftsmen are at your imagination's beck and call — literally — as you can set up a consultation to discuss the specific designs on your mind. Have an older piece you're trying to give a more modern look? Or a wedding or engagement ring you need done to your exact specifications? Consider it done. Because if one thing's for sure, when you go to Cornelis Hollander, you're going get the most creative bling for your buck.
